Dear Prof./Dr./Mr./Ms. Santosh Kumar,

Congratulations!

We are pleased to inform you that your manuscript id-622 & titled "Explainable AI for Clinical Decision Support in Heart Disease Prediction" has been peer-reviewed and accepted for paper presentation, in OFFLINE Mode, at "2026 IEEE 6th International Conference on Computing, Power, and Communication Technologies", which will be held at Galgotias University, Greater Noida, India (203201), from May 15-17, 2026.

The conference is technically and financially & Technically sponsored by the IEEE Uttar Pradesh Section and the technically sponsored by IEEE Education Society.

Step to Follow:

1. Revise your manuscript as suggested by reviewers. You can check it in your cmt login.
 2. Verify plagiarism levels in your final camera-ready paper after revision—ensure it stays below the specified limit.
 3. Make payment of the Paper Publication Fee through NEFT/Internet Banking, applicable amount for Offline Author:<https://www.ic2pct.co.in/registration>
 2. Fill the Registration form with all details and upload the final camera-ready paper using this Registration Form Link: <https://forms.gle/KPwX3vPoiqyCaTgL7>
 3. Deadline for registration (Slot-wise): April 4, 2026, as it is based on a slot-wise decision. (No extension)(Any fees paid after the specified deadline will neither qualify for presentation nor be eligible for a refund.)

Important :

1. All the accepted and presented papers meeting IEEE Xplore's scope and quality standards will be submitted for inclusion in IEEE Xplore, ensuring global visibility and recognition for the authors.
2. Registration requires completing the shared Registration Form after payment. Payment alone does not constitute registration.
3. Any payment made without completing the registration form will be deemed incomplete and ineligible for presentation or refund.

Kindly log in to your CMT account to review the comments provided by the reviewers.

"It is essential that you incorporate all suggested revisions given by reviewers in your camera-ready manuscript to ensure compliance with the review process."
Failure to address the reviewers' comments may result in rejection. Additionally, please adhere to the plagiarism guidelines outlined below:

Important Guidelines:

1. Ensure that the similarity index (plagiarism) does not exceed 10%, including references, with AI-generated content contributing no more than 15%, to qualify for submission to the IEEE Xplore Digital Library.
2. Complete the registration process by April 4, 2026, as it is based on a slot-wise decision.
3. Regularly check the conference website for updates on registration, camera-ready manuscript submission, copyright submission, PDF Express verification, and other important details.
4. Aim for a manuscript length of six pages. If Additional pages, pay the extra amount applicable, upto 2 pages.
5. One author, Maximum two registrations for two different papers (if accepted), by paying two different applicable registration fees.

Mandatory Requirements:

Registration through Google Form and presentation (offline) is compulsory, as per the conference guidelines.

Important Note:

1. "If you missed registering during your designated slot (no change is applicable), your paper registration will be placed on hold and considered later, subject to availability in the final limited registration count."
2. With the approval of the conference committee (TPC), authors from foreign countries or from South and North-East India (provided all authors are from the same region in the paper) may request permission for online presentation, supported by a genuine reason with the applicable fee. By considering the limit of total online presentation, which was approved by the UP Section, only 20% of the total registered.
3. Please note that the Technical Program Committee (TPC) reserves the right to review such requests and decide whether to grant approval for online presentation based on the justification provided.
If the request is approved, the conference committee will send a separate email to the authors with a dedicated registration link and further instructions for the online presentation.

Should you have any queries, please do not hesitate to contact us.
